To the inhabitants of Windham:

It affords the Trustees much pleasure in presenting to the town their fourth annual report of the Nesmith Library, to be able to say that it is so largely an attractive point to the inhabitants of the town. The privilege of having semi-weekly access to a library that affords so much matter for thought, entertainment and useful acquisition, is being, evidently more fully appreciated by those who are availing themselves of it. Sixty-nine more volumes have been taken from the library this year than the last. Excellent care continues to be taken of it and it is in good condition.

It is the endeavor of the Trustees, with the limited amount of funds at their disposal, to make the very choicest and most valuable additions. They do not forget that the design of the library was for the benefit of future generations, as well as for the present one. For this reason, books of permanent interest, as well as those that have only an ephemeral existence, should find a place on its shelves. Doubtless, the founder, in conferring such a benefit on this town, would have it the means of enlightening and improving, as well as entertaining and amusing society. A due combination of these, therefore, seems to be the proper rule for expending the annuity provided. Gladly would we expend more than this if the money were at our disposal; for good reading for all classes in a quiet town like Windham, is a happy means of improving the leisure hours of Winter evenings, as well as in other seasons of the year. It serves to equalize as well as diffuse intelligence, and thus elevate the general character of the people. For this reason, it is a wise provision to have such reading, in sufficient and suitable variety, at our disposal. But we already have this, in good measure, and until we can have it in greater measure, let us not only be content with, but make the best possible improvement of it.

WINDHAM, MARCH 1, 1875.

SCHOOL REPORT.

The School Committee of Windham present the following report of the schools for the year 1874-5.

DISTRICT NUMBER ONE.

This school, taught by Miss Addie M. Greely of Londonderry, the three successive terms of the year, has afforded gratifying evidence of the teacher's ability both to govern and instruct her scholars. The order, deportment, method of instruction, interest and progress of the scholars in their studies, from first to last, have been such as to leave little room for comment but that of commendation of both teacher and scholars. It has truly been a number one school, and may be regarded as nearly or quite a model one. The third term was extended by subscription.

DISTRICT NUMBER TWO.

This school was taught also by the same teacher the three terms of the year, Miss Mary E. Reynolds of this town, and with a success that compares favorably with that of No. 1. The school is smaller, but much credit has been reflected on the teacher by the interest she has inspired in her scholars in their studies, and by the success of her faithful and earnest efforts. Her order, method of instruction, and the advancement of her scholars, give her the rank of one of our best teachers, and her school as one of our best schools. To other exercises, she added singing and gymnastics.

DISTRICT NUMBER THREE.

The summer term of this school was taught by Miss Annie A. Marsh of Litchfield. This was her first school, which will account in some measure for some deficiency in the government and method of instruction. Yet her order was fair, and her efforts to instruct and advance her scholars were faithful, and in a good measure successful.

The Winter term was taught by Miss Ella J. Burns of this town. The appearance of the school at its opening, left on the mind of the Committee a favorable impression; and notwithstanding some friction between the teacher and some of the scholars near the close, which was much to be regretted, the examination and general appearance of the school at its close, evinced a good measure of improvement and success.

DISTRICT NUMBER FOUR.

This school, including the summer, fall and winter terms, was taught by Miss E. Florie Gilcreast of Londonderry. Miss G., though young, secured the confidence of her scholars by her manifest devotion to their improvement, and if the reins of her government might have been drawn a little tighter to advantage, yet her tact, earnestness, and zeal in instructing, were such as to prevent any serious evil from this cause; and the school in her hands has been a decided success. The scholars have learned well.

DISTRICT NUMBER FIVE.

The first term was taught by Miss Frankie M. Clement of Hudson. This was her first school, and though well qualified to instruct, her natural diffidence, which doubtless by experience she will overcome, affected somewhat the efficiency of her instruction as well as her government. Yet the self-respect of the scholars, and the interest she inspired in them in their studies, prevented their taking any advantage of this; and she succeeded well, both as to the general order and proficiency of the scholars in their studies.

The second term was taught by Miss Martha Hills of this town. Her reputation as a successful teacher was fully sustained in this school. Good order, faithful and patient instruction, proficiency in their studies, and respectful deportment on the part of the scholars, were the leading characteristics of the school. Singing was practiced with other exercises.

DISTRICT NUMBER SIX.

Miss Minnie E. Smith of Hudson was the teacher of the first term of this school. She had a somewhat difficult task to perform to keep the order of the school at the high point where it had been left by her predecessor, Miss Scribner. But she, in a good measure, succeeded; and her efforts to instruct and advance her scholars in their studies, were equally successful.

The second term was taught by Miss Sarah J. Harrington of Alstead. Miss H's literary qualifications for successful teaching were undoubted; but for some reason she failed to properly govern the school. This greatly counteracted her efforts to advance her scholars; as restlessness and noise in the school-room do not consist with the deepest interest in studies, nor with the best progress. Yet a good degree of progress was made, especially by those who were the most desirous to learn.

DISTRICT NUMBER SEVEN.

This school has but one term in the year, and was taught by Mr. F. J. Hughes of this town. Though the number of scholars is small, Mr. H. created and sustained in the minds of his scholars a good degree of interest in their studies; and it was evident at the close that a commendable degree of progress had been made in them. The order was also good.

GENERAL REMARKS.

Our school houses, for neatness, comfort and convenience are an honor to the town. That in No. 3, however, though formerly as inviting as the average, is now in need of improvement, which it is hoped by the committee will soon be made. It adds greatly to the interest of scholars in their studies, and indeed to their self-respect and general improvement, to have everything in and about the school-room pleasant and attractive.

During the year a change of readers has been made from the Progressive to the Franklin series. The Committee is averse to frequent changes in school books, as parents should not be subjected to any unnecessary expense in this respect. But after using the old Readers seven years, the best interests of the schools seemed to require something new, and more fully in keeping with the advance made in methods of reading.

The Committee cannot too earnestly commend to parents the importance of giving to teachers their active sympathy and earnest cooperation. While the Prudential Committee should strive to procure the best teachers that is possible, let them feel by our occasional visits, by attending the examinations, by a word of encouragement, and by sustaining them in every proper and earnest effort to discharge their duty, that we appreciate such efforts to improve and qualify our children and youths for respectability, usefulness and happiness in the future relations of life. Let the scholars also see that by such tokens of interest in the school, we appreciate their efforts to acquire a good education; and that we expect of them such deportment, respect for the teacher, and diligence in their studies, as self-respect and self-improvement require of scholars.

But our public schools are a public as well as an individual benefit; and we should do all in our power to afford to all our youths the advantages necessary to qualify them to act their part as citizens and members of society, intelligently, and in a manner to secure and perpetuate our free institutions, which are the glory of our land. We can make no better investment for our own welfare as a people, or for that of the generations that are to follow, than to guard well and perfect our public school system, and make it the means of diffusing, far and wide, that "knowledge which is power." It lies at the threshold of all intelligence, refinement, elevation and happiness.

The tables that follow will show the statistical condition of the schools.

The following are the names of scholars in the schools of Nos. 4 and 6 who have been reported as perfect in attendance, or not absent one-half day during the term. Such scholars are reported in all the other schools, but their names are not given.
